It was a sad night when the prince held the hand of his father, the King who was about to die. Moments later, the King opened his weak eyes and said with trembling lips: Son, I want you to live happily, so I recommend that you marry only the most beautiful woman in the world!

The prince said in astonishment: Who is she, sir and father? The King replied: She is a woman like the moon, a stranger has never seen her!

After the death of the King, the prince became king over the countries, but still thinking about how he would carry out his father's will, so he asked the ministers to search the width and length of the country in order to bring him the most beautiful woman in the world!

Indeed, it did not take long until they brought him a woman of unusual beauty , so wedding, happiness and sweet nights were held, and the people rejoiced in the marriage of their King and the coronation of the new Queen, everyone started talking about her brilliant beauty, but the days made them all suffer a violent shock when they knew that the morals of that Queen were the worst calamity that struck them!..Within five years, the beautiful kingdom turned into a pale after the King started gathering taxes harshly and charging men to fight wars, so the people became hungry and mothers grieved.. Do you know - O intelligent ones - the reason for all this sorrow??

When will the King let us
come back to our families??

Dad..I am hungry,
where are you, dad??

Well done!.. It is the Queen who loves jewels and gold and encourages her King husband to love the enjoyments and wage wars to get more money, kingship and wealth.. No one ever cares about her beauty or talks about it, it has become a disaster that everyone wishes Allah would get them rid of!

On a moonlit night, while the Queen was strolling in the beautiful garden of the palace, a large snake bit her, and despite the soldiers trying to save her and the doctor coming in a hurry, her life ended and she died instantly that night.. Thus, everyone felt happy in their hearts and thanked Allah who saved them from this evil, but no one ever dared to show that for fear of the King!

But one night after, the King went out alone and sad touring the kingdom when he stood at one of the houses and heard their voice celebrating. For that, he came close to knowing the reason but he was shocked to know the truth that people celebrate the death of the Queen, so he blushed with anger and decided to punish these people severely, but when he reached the garden of his palace, he saw the beautiful moon in the sky, so he thought:

- This moon is beautiful, it lights for people and does not harm anyone.. Now I understand!
That's what my father meant! My wife must be like the moon, beautiful, benevolent and harmless!
The King scratched his head and shouted:
- Also.. it should belong to me.. no stranger had ever seen her face before me.. so where can I find a woman with these amazing characteristics?!

Oh, my God

Just as You created this beautiful moon to make the dark night happy.
Make me a moon like this to make my life happy, too!

The next day, the King gathered his men and told them of his sudden desire, and stipulated that this bride should be like the hidden pearl; a stranger had never seen her face.. So the men went in every direction to ask the people about such a rare woman, but no one was able to help the soldiers at all, but every woman -in the kingdom- wished she was veiled to become a queen!

Bring me this woman even if she is in the end of earth!

I want her like
a pearl, no eye had ever had a look at her before me!

Soon the King was disappointed, but a soldier suddenly knocked on the King's door and told him about a message that was suddenly found at the door of the palace.. the King read the message:

"If you want a bride that no one had ever looked at, then do not look at men's wives, and if you want Allah to repair your life, repair the life of people!"

Well.. I have to work with the laws of Allah to give me my ask!

Because there was no evil queen encourages the King to be greedy or miser, the King could come back to his previous goodness and so was affected by this fair sermon, and he decided to change himself and give up his oppression first so that Allah would change his sad situation, and repair his life with the desired bride secondly, since then the King turned a blind eye to women, gave the usurped money back to its owners, fed the hungry people and of course stopped waging wars and harming people!

Discharge the soldiers!

Help the people!

Feed the hungry!

Free the captives!

My daughter,

what's wrong with you?!

Dad?!..Is this a dream??

Two years later, while the King was touring his kingdom to check out the conditions of his public, he stared at the shining moon and said, calling upon Allah, his Lord:

- Oh, my God.. I gave up injustice and corrected people's condition, so when - O my Lord - will You correct my situation and guide me to my righteous bride?

Sir.. one word from you is brighter than gold that lights up years

So, what do you want?

Well.. I will order for you and people like you with money

I must not look at her

My husband was killed in that war, and we have become poor, sir

Shut up, you stupid!

Mom
The king looks like my grandfather when he rides his donkey!

Minutes later, the King heard a shouting sound from the depths of the forest, so he poked his white horse and set off quickly.

But when he arrived, the horse whined scared because of hearing a frightening close roar, so the King drew his long white sword and run towards the sound with courage, and when the horse got scared, he dismounted and attacked the tiger himself..!

This is the roar of a tiger certainly!

I'll make it tastes my sword!

Within minutes, the brave King defeated the tiger after he had stabbed him with his sharp sword, then the King turned around looking for the owner of the shout he had heard a while ago.. There he saw the ghost of two persons near the tree, he approached them quietly and saluted them!

In the Name of Allah
The Powerful!

The voice of an old ill man -who was able to be seen in the moonlight- answered him thanking, while the other person who was hidden with clothes from head to toe did not answer, so the King could not recognize him at all. He asked the elder about him and he answered coughing: 'This is my daughter, she loves Allah and obeyed Him, for that she allow no stranger ever looks at her face!"

Thanks,sir..
Is the palace close
to here?

We came from far away to ask for some favor from the King

Who is this?
Is he man or Woman?

Thanks are for You, Allah
You are The King of kings,
Your words are that lights our life!

The King yelled happily:

- Haaaaa!!!.. Allah has responded to my prayers!.. A word 'Yes' from Allah is unvaluable!

Then the King ran quickly on his horse, while the old man and his daughter froze and never understood the reason for what happened, but in the morning they found themselves going in a great procession to the palace!

Of course, the King held a very large wedding for several days commensurate with his expected happiness, also the people celebrated despite their fear of the unknown, but soon they were happy with their new Queen when they discovered her good morals that does not resemble the morals of the old Queen at all.. although no one spoke about the beauty of the Queen, because none of them ever saw her face, but everyone was talking morning and evening about her good deeds and her kindness to everyone!!

Excuse me because I did not paint for you the Queen the most beautiful woman in the world, because the King and Queen did not agree, as she is -as I told you- the hidden pearl of the King; strangers should never see it, but I will tell you that the King no longer stares at the moon after that; because he has his own moon in his palace!

A Great King like you, should do more great good deeds!

...Done by the grace of Allah...
